Charles Hyslop, representative in the state legislature from this county, announces that all students or prospective students in the University of Missouri who desire cadet positions in the military department should see him before August 1.

Holding the position of a state cadet exempts a student from the payment of incidental fees each semester. It also has other advantages as may be seen by referring to an M. U. catalogue.

HOLT'S INVENTION

QUITMAN MAN'S DEVICE FOR UNLOADING CORN GETS NOTICE.

FARM PAPER TELLS OF IT

Special Writer in Live Stock Report of Clay Robinson & Co. Says It Is Just the Thing.

An invention of A. J. Holt of Quitman for unloading corn is receiving considerable attention from farmers and farm papers. It was recently written up as follows in the Live Stock Report, which is issued weekly by the Clay, Robinson & Co. live stock commission:

In the course of a trip to north Missouri, E. S. Downs of our East St. Louis cattle selling department, had occasion to visit A. J. Holt, proprietor of the Walnut Dell farm, near Quitman, Mo., where he had opportunity to see Mr. Holt's well arranged methods for feeding cattle.

Below is a picture of his unloading chute for corn as it is hauled from the field or purchased from others as the case may be. It is located in the center of a large round combination barn and crib which is built just at the foot of a rise in the ground, which gives easy approach for wagons to unload.

The barn and crib have cement floors with capacity for 10,000 bushels of corn, and the unloading arrangement is in the middle, in the form of a turntable, large enough to permit a team and wagon to drive upon and dump, after which the chute, together with team and wagon, is turned around until the team is permitted to drive out the way it entered.

The turntable and dump are about ten feet above the floor of the barn and wagons can be unloaded at any

BOAT AT DAM SOON

HOW WILL DRAINAGE DITCHER PASS WATER PLANT?

MAY FLOAT HER OVER

Building of Higher Wall Below Would Accomplish It—Get $1,700 From Security Company.

Now that the drainage boat, which is excavating the new channel of the 102 river from the state line to the Carr bridge two miles south of the water plant, is passing under the Pride bridge, interest is beginning to turn to the arrival of the boat east of Maryville. The Hollensbee gang is busy this week removing the Pride bridge.

The boat will move rapidly down the two miles from the Pride bridge to the water plant and the state road running east from Maryville. At least a half mile immediately above the water plant the line of the ditch survey follows the bed of the river and it is only necessary for the ditcher to float down these places doing no excavating.

The old ditch is also followed, which means that little excavation is necessary. The contract called for the completion of the ditch to the Carr bridge four months after the work began. This time has elapsed, but the high water again this summer has delayed the work and the drainage board is satisfied with the progress shown.

What is to be done when the boat reaches the dam of the Maryville water plant? That is the question which has been heard frequently since the ditcher has come within close distance of it. Two alternatives are all that seem possible, according to J. H. Martin, superintendent of the plant.

Charles Holdaway, of the firm of Lewis & Holdaway, which is doing the drainage work, has talked with Mr. Martin and indicated that his plan would be to dig a temporary dam just below the water plant with sufficient height to float the boat across. If this cannot be done it will be necessary to tear the boat down and reconstruct it on the lower side of the dam.

A settlement of $1,700 has been made by the drainage board with the Southern Security company of St. Louis. This company bonded the D. C. Stevens contract and is therefore paying the difference between 7.7 cents a yard which the former company contracted for and the 12 cents which the Lewis & Holdaway company bid for.

ED KECK GETS THE FISH

Maryville Man Gets Write-up in Eagle River, Wis., Paper for 8-Pound Pike.

E. W. Keck, who with Mrs. Keck is visiting at the lakes in Wisconsin, is meeting with great success in fishing as will be seen from the following which is clipped from a paper of Eagle River, Wis.:

Edward Keck of Maryville, Mo., has fallen for the lure of the big game fishing in the northern waters. He is a guest at the Morey and in waters adjacent to that hostelry Monday he hooked and successfully landed an 8-pound pike, a beauty of the wall-eyed species.

Mr. Keck will probably return home in a week, while Mrs. Keck will remain for a longer visit.

'DRYS' OPTIMISTIC

PROGRESSIVES INVITED

Virgil G. Hinshaw in Keynote Makes Appeal for Making Prohibition Party Liberal One.

BULLETIN.

St. Paul, July 18.—The Prohibition presidential situation had apparently simmered down today to a contest between William Sulzer of New York and J. Frank Hanly, former governor of Indiana.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Prohibitionists say this is their year. Russia, the greatest nation in the world, has barred strong drink forever. Almost all of Canada is prohibition ground. Anti-liquor laws are moving fast to turn "white" the remaining "black" teritory on the map of the United States.

American national prohibition is not far off, in the opinion of the veteran leaders of the party here today. They see the cause for which they have fought many decades finally near victory.

Virgil G. Hinshaw, national chairman, called the convention to order at 10 o'clock this morning. Following the invocation, Mrs. Frances E. Beauchamp of Kentucky, secretary of the national committee, read the official call for the convention.

Convention committees were elected by the state delegations and then Daniel A. Poling, one of the best orators of the country, delivered the "keynote" address as temporary chairman.

Mayor V. G. Irvin of St. Paul, W. G. Calderwood of Minnesota, representing the Minnesota Prohibitionists, and F. W. Emerson of California also spoke.

The convention boasts what is said to be the largest orchestra ever assembled for a gathering of the sort. The favorite song is "Come a-Singin'." The chorus of 1,000 is led by Rollin M. Pease of St. Paul, known as the "tramp composer."

Indians Prominent There.

De Witt Hare (Little Bear) and many other Indians were prominent in the convention and declared that whatever had been the ravages of "fire water" among their tribes in the past, its conquests are near an end. These Indians have renounced the paternal guardianship of the United States and are full citizens.

The convention will continue three days. Candidates for president and vice president will be nominated on Friday. Among those whose friends are contesting for this honor for them are William Sulzer, deposed governor of New York; J. Frank Hanly, former governor of Indiana; Eugene N. Foss, former governor of Massachusetts; Sumner W. Haynes of Portland, Ind.; Francis E. Baldwin of Elmira, N. Y., a prominent manufacturer; William B. F. Ferguson of Franklin, Pa., editor of a "dry" magazine, and Frederick F. Wheeler of Los Angeles, Cal., banker and business man.

In his keynote speech here today as temporary chairman of the Prohibition national convention, Daniel A. Polin of Boston made a notable plea for the check of the liquor evil.

Keynote Strong Denunciation.

At the same he dwelt on a host of other issues which, he said, the Prohibitionists would attend to if they elect a president this November.

He demanded that appropriations for the army and navy be not increased over those of past years. Almost in the next breath he declared his party stood for the staunch upholding of the Monroe doctrine—whether by force or moral suasion he did not say.

American rights must be defended at home and abroad, he said, and he indorsed the proper proposal for an international world wide court supported by an international police force.

The only steps he urged to put the United States in better position to assert its right were to eliminate the

COW HURTS WOMAN

MRS. WILL HANSEN ON MILLER RANCH SEVERELY INJURED.

ANIMAL WITH YOUNG CALF

Husband Probably Saved Her Life at 7 o'Clock Sunday When They Were Driving Cattle.

Mrs. Will Hansen barely escaped death from an enraged cow Sunday evening at 7 o'clock when she went with her husband to drive up the cows on the Miller Bros. ranch, where they are employed, seven miles northwest of Maryville. Her husband's arrival probably saved her life.

It was also fortunate that the cow did not have horns. As it was, Mrs. Hansen suffered a broken collar bone and was severely bruised all over her body by the butting and stamping of the cow. A young calf, only a few days old, was with the cow and was probably the cause of the attack.

Mr. Hansen was in the west side of the pasture and was unable to reach his wife after her calls for help until several minutes later, being afoot. Mrs. Hansen is still suffering severely today and the physicians are unable to determine yet whether the danger of complications is passed. Internal injuries are feared.

According to his information a great band of Villistas are gathering at Tinajas and Las Escobas ready for a swift descent on Ojinaga. From the neighborhood of Boquillos comes a dispatch stating that a force of the Villistas have already attacked and wiped out a Carranza garrison within twenty miles of the international boundary.

GUARDS TO LEAVE LAREDO

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

San Antonio, Tex., July 17.—Eight thousand guardsmen now in Laredo, Tex., will be moved back from the border to one of the smaller towns on the railroad connecting Laredo and San Antonio unless General Funston alters his plan announced today. Citizens of Laredo recently sent to Texas congressmen a telegraphic protest against the insanitary condition of the guardsmen's camp, calling attention to the limited supply of water.

This protest reached General Funston, who admitted that better conditions might be found. Missouri troops are stationed there.

THE RICHEST HERITAGE.

From the St. Joseph News-Press.

It was President Garfield's doctrine that "the richest heritage a young man can be born to is poverty." Wealth may sometimes be an unmixed blessing to him who acquires it, but it can seldom be such to the son who inherits it. The chief good of wealth lies in the effort through which it is created, not in satisfaction of possession. Possession of wealth may make life easier, but in the same degree that it does that it destroys the natural stimulus to exertion, which alone makes the man.

We may look at the secure possession of wealth as the main end of life and so regard the heir to a fortune as indeed lucky. But, even then, is it well to have the end of life come at the beginning? Lots of men who have inherited great wealth have made much of their lives in spite of it. But ordinarily the son of a very rich man proves less a man than his father was. The boy "born with a silver spoon in his mouth" is apt to content himself sucking that spoon. He sees others striving for wealth and concludes it must be a good thing, though he cannot know why, for the man who has felt nothing of the evils of poverty can know nothing of the real advantages of wealth.

The corrupt practices bill, the last measure on the administration program, was passed by the house Saturday without a record vote. It fixes $50,000 as the limit of expenditure by a candidate for president, $25,000 for a candidate for vice president, $5,000 for a senatorship and $2,500 for congressmen. This bill, if finally enacted into law, will, it is believed, have a tendency to check the collection of huge campaign funds by both political parties this year.

The bill will have no effect on senatorial and congressional candidates in Missouri for the reason that the Missouri state law already fixes a limit much lower than the proposed federal law, so low in fact that candidates for these offices are seriously handicapped sometimes in carrying on the necessary and legitimate expenses of their campaigns. The expense of securing a nomination has at the same time been greatly increased by the primary law, which compels them to write thousands of letters and to limit their visiting list only to the number of voters.

Have you ever stopped to appreciate the beauty and elegance of Maryville's new post office building? Do you know how lucky we are to have such a handsome building when cities like Moberly and others of twice the size of Maryville have had to put up with buildings of half the cost and numerous cities as large as Maryville have no federal building at all? And have you ever stopped to think what that building means? It means that Maryville and Nodaway county have a friend in the national congress who is able to get results and who is glad to get the best that is going for his constituents. It is a lasting monument to the industry, energy and loyalty of Hon. Charles F. Booher.

According to James R. Mann, Republican party leader in the house of representatives, the railroad lobbyists slipped a joker into the Republican platform at the late Chicago convention pledging the party to take away from the states all control of the railroads which pass through them. Mr. Mann's explanation of how it happened may be correct or he may be mistaken, but what do the people think of such a proposition?

Reasons Why the Farmers of Missouri Should Support John Morgan Atkinson of Ripley County for Governor

JOHN MORGAN ATKINSON,
Candidate for Democratic Nomination for Governor.

Because he led the fight against single tax two years ago, and as Governor would veto any scheme to put the burden of all taxation on the farm lands and that sought to exempt all moneys, bonds and notes from their just part of taxation.

Because he is in favor of building good roads for each county and using convicts in the building wherever practicable.

Because when Speaker of the House of Representatives he actively supported measures providing for county farm experiment stations, state dairy department, state fair, state binder twine plant to furnish twine to the farmers at cost, good road laws and many other laws in the interest of the farmers.

Because he favors such rural credit legislation as may be necessary to supplement the federal rural credit law and enable not only the landowner to borrow money at as low a rate of interest as possible, on long time, but a land loan law that will enable the man who has no land to buy a home and pay for it.

Because in the courts he won the suit sustaining the validity of the "option stamp act," which has already paid the state more than $200,000, and the same has gone into the good roads funds.

Because he won the suit sustaining the validity of the "grain weighing act" and saved the farmers more than $1,000,000 per year which had heretofore been taken from them by the dishonest weighing of their products at the principal markets of the state.

Because he successfully prosecuted the "Lumber Trust suit" and secured a conviction and fines aggregating $458,000, the largest fine ever secured in this state.

Because his public record shows that he stands for what is best in every walk of life.

Because he was born and reared on a farm in Ripley county and learned to do all kind of farm work. He is a self-made man and is in sympathy with all movements tending to benefit the farmer.

Because as Governor he would give this state a good, business-like and economic administration and will see that all appropriations are well within the state's revenues. He favors the budget system in making appropriations, which will prevent any over-appropriation hereafter.

Because as a Democrat his record is above criticism. He has always voted the Democratic ticket and contributed to the cause of Democracy and rendered valiant service to the party in many campaigns on the stump. If nominated no one will have to apologize for his Democracy.

Because he is admirably fitted for the position of Governor. His executive and constructive ability have been demonstrated. His career starts with the farm, then a teacher, then county clerk, next he represented his county two terms in the legislature and became speaker of the house, then he was appointed assistant attorney-general, where he won high rank as a lawyer. His last achievement was the drafting of the public utilities law and he was made its chairman, from which position he resigned on the first of May to seek the office of Governor.

Because he has proved himself to be a true and tried friend of the farmers when he was not seeking a high office, and they should vote for him on August 1 because he can be depended upon to look after their interests and give the state a good, clean, business administration and fairly and equitably enforce the laws.

Reasons Why Organized Labor Should Support John Morgan Atkinson for Governor.

Because as a member of the Missouri legislature he supported every law tending to better the condition of the workingman.

Because he voted for laws requiring the installation of safety devices on railroads for the protection of the railroad employes and travelers.

Because he voted for the 16-hour trainmen's law.

Because he voted for the eight-hour telegrapher's law.

Because he assisted in the passage of the law making the fellow-servant law applicable to mine workers.

Because he helped to pass safety laws for miners.

Because he favors the passage of a workmen's compensation law.

Because he is sincerely a friend of labor and his public acts have not been staged with a view of winning support in some future contest.

Because he has a great legal and judicial mind and as Governor, and a friend of labor, he would not permit the enactment of any legislation inimical to labor and would detect and eliminate from labor laws any "jokers" designed to deprive labor of the just benefits of such laws.

ELECTING A PRESIDENT

ROOSEVELT.

Roosevelt Decisively Defeated Parker In 1904.

THE Republicans, pleased with the successor of McKinley, nominated Roosevelt in 1904. A split had occurred in the Democratic party over the question of free silver. William Jennings Bryan had a large following, but also had many bitter enemies. Alton B. Parker of New York was agreed on as a compromise candidate. He was supposed to have no decided views on the issue. However, before the convention adjourned he came out in favor of the gold standard.

Roosevelt was overwhelmingly elected, and Charles W. Fairbanks of Indiana was chosen vice president, while Parker's running mate that year was Henry G. Davis of West Virginia.

WAR ELEVATING WOMEN

Kaiser's "Kitchen, Kids and Kirk" Severely Jolted as Men's Jobs Are Taken.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

St. Paul, Minn., July 19.—War is raising woman to a higher position in the world, Miss Marie C. Brehm of Illinois told the national conference on prohibition women held before the meeting of the national Prohibition convention here this morning.

"Even in Germany the Kaiser's favorite saying of woman is fast passing away," said Miss Brehm, who is a leading social worker.

"That woman was designed to serve only according to his three k's, 'Kueche, Kirche and Kinder,' or, as some one has translated it, 'Kitchen, Kids and Kirk,' is receiving a severe jolt during war conditions of the Kaiser's domain."

OATS HERE BEST EVER

"Oats are about the best I ever saw in my vicinity this summer," said E. A. Wolfe, a successful young stockman and farmer of Maryville, who was in today with a load of hogs of his own feeding.

"Oats will make an average yield of forty bushels per acre and many fields will make larger yields. However, wheat is not quite so good. The stalk looks just as good as usual but the heads failed to fill well. I do not believe the yield of wheat will be any more than ten to fifteen bushels per acre on the average."

Nodaway county was represented by Mr. Wolfe and J. A. McMahon, each marketing a load of hogs.

CRAIG CALLS COMMITTEE

Farm Marketing Group Will Meet August 3 in Columbia to Discuss Program.

Senator Anderson Craig, chairman of the farm marketing committee, has issued a call for a committee meeting at Columbia on August 3. This committee was selected at a meeting of the farm market conference held at Columbia during farmers' week in January.

The committee will consider plans by which the farmers may be rescued from the impossible market conditions which prevail at this time and upon which depends the future of the farm homes.

$50,000,000 of graft he asserted has been in the annual $250,000,000 military and naval approviations of recent years, and "preparation for peace and war" by the elimination of the economic losses occasioned through strong drink.

Mr. Poling predicted the success of national prohibition by 1917. The anti-liquor forces had formerly set as their goal a dry nation by 1920, he said, but now they saw the culmination of their hopes would be reached several years sooner than that.

Mr. Poling bespoke a cordial welcome into the Prohibition party to all Progressives. He praised their stand in 1912 and condemned Theodore Roosevelt for "deserting" the Moose this year.

KANSAS CITY MARKET LETTER.

Kansas City Stock Yards, July 17.—The cattle market gained 10 to 25 cents last week after touching the low spot late Tuesday and Wednesday. This encouraged loading for today to some extent, although the break the first days of the week was hard to accept. Receipts today are 19,000 head and the market uneven, steady to 15 cents lower. A good shower about noon put some firmness into the situation.

Beef Steers.

No strictly prime cattle were here, conditions not looking promising last week. Pretty good Missouri corn and grass steers sold at $9.25 to $10. Kansas shipped freely, and good wintered steers sold at $8.25 to $9.00, second and third grade steers $7 to $8, weights up to 1,150 pounds in these classes. Oklahoma and Kansas grazed Texas steers brought up this spring sold down to $6.25. In the quarantine division only thirty-seven cars arrived, and sales were 10 cents lower.

Average quality was not very good, best north Texas fed steers here at $8.25, though better ones would sell up to $8.50, medium steers around $7.75, Oklahoma grass steers $5.75 to $7.25. Butcher grades sold only a shade lower, top yearlings mixed $9.75, straight heifers $9.50, from Nebraska, top heavy cows $7.75, grass cows $6 to $6.50, some good white face grass cows at $7, veal calves $8 to $11, bulls $5.75 to $7.25.

Stockers and Feeders.

Prices closed last week at the low point of the summer, although there were signs of a better trade this week. All the yard traders are back in the harness, after their summer absence, and bidding today was more spirited, sales steady to weak. A good rain here at noon helped the situation, as it came easily, and gave hopes that the dry spell was broken elsewhere. Common to fair stock steers sell at $6 to $6.50, god ones $7 to $7.50, best ones $7.50 to $7.75, feeders $7.25 to $8.

Hogs.

Receipts were 9,000; market steady to 5c lower, top $9.85, bulk $9.55 to $9.80, lights up to $9.70. The market opened with threats of a 10 cent decline, but good orders materialized and most of the sales were less than 5 cents lower. Receipts are not burdensome anywhere, and there are no indications of a heavy supply soon, although distant points are contributing hogs regularly. For these reasons, although prices have declined slightly during the past week, faith in future strength in the market remains.

Sheep and Lambs.

After a week of strength, lambs broke badly today, sales 25 to 40 cents lower. Two shipments of Idaho lambs brought $10.30, which is the top in Omaha today. Natives brought $10.25 today, Idaho yearlings $7.85 and $7.90, Texas wethers and yearlings late last week $7.70. There is an extraordinary demand for breeding stock, some 3 to 6 year old black face native breeders, 105 lb. average, selling up to $8.75 last Friday. Good western breeders bring around $7.50, and feeding lambs up to $8.75.

desired place, thus avoiding the work or necessity of shoveling at any time, as the corn can be distributed by means of the turntable, which one man can move easily. Around the crib are the feed boxes with plenty of space for cattle to feed and all under cover. One man can feed easily all the cattle that can stand to the trough of this immense barn, as the corn is close and can be shoveled in boxes in a short time.

Mr. Holt is one of the most successful feeders and farmers in the country. He has secured a patent for his invention, which Mr. Downs thinks is the most practical of any he has ever seen and says it will pay any feeder to see and investigate.

EX-PEDDLER RICH.

After Thirty Years He Distributes $15,000 Among Employees.

BEGAN WITH NINETEEN CENTS

New Yorker Invested That Sum In Suspenders and Sold Them on the Bowery—Now Is Able to Share Success With Those Who Helped to Make It.

New York.—Bernhard Blitzer of a gas and electric appliance company in this city arrived in New York from Austria thirty years ago with 19 cents in his pocket. He invested his 19 cents in suspenders and sold them on the Bowery. Recently he distributed more than $15,000 among the twenty-seven heads of departments and salesmen employed by the firm of which he is the president.

Mr. Blitzer told the story of his life at a dinner in the Hotel Belleclaire given by his firm to the traveling salesmen.

"I came to America from Austria," said Mr. Blitzer, "when about eighteen years old, and when I landed I had just 19 cents. I met an Austrian friend who ran a small hotel near the Battery, and he offered me a room and meals on credit until I was able to pay for them. I accepted his kindness, and with my 19 cents I bought a few pairs of suspenders, which I peddled. When they were sold I put my principal and profit into suspenders and peddled again. I kept this up, always putting every cent of profit into more stock, until I rose to the proud position of peddler-merchant. In those days a peddler-merchant was one who had a cart and paid a man $1 a day to push it while he sold merchandise."

After a time Mr. Blitzer was able to pay his landlord in full, and some time later he was able to marry. From peddling merchandise he went to work for the gas company of New York, and there he had his opportunity and his idea.

"I saw the possibilities of manufacturing and selling lighting fixtures," he told his salesmen. "I investigated and found that thousands upon thousands of New York homes were without either gas or electricity. I realized that sooner or later every home in New York would have one or the other, that many new homes would be built and that fixtures would be necessary wherever gas or electricity went. So I determined to go into the business of manufacturing and selling lighting fixtures. I took all of the money I had saved—it wasn't very much, but it gave me a start—and I persuaded my brother-in-law, now the secretary-treasurer of our company, Charles A. Gottesman, to put in all of his money, and together we began business at 138 Bowery. This was in 1903. Our place was small, and our business was little at first. I was the salesman, and Mr. Gottesman was packer, shipper, credit man, store manager and a dozen other things.

"It was slow going at first, but we were headed in the right direction. People began to use electricity and gas more and more, and we began to sell more and more fixtures. The rest of the story is simply one of steady growth, each year being better than the year before and last year being the best of all.

"And now I think we have got to the position where we can begin to share our success with the men who have helped us make it. We are therefore presenting a little gift to each man, and I wish to announce that in the future the profits of the firm will be shared with those who help make the profits."

At a dinner given previously to the heads of departments checks were distributed to the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Bolin and children left yesterday for a six weeks' sojourn in Clyde, Kan.

Dr. and Mrs. Jesse Miller left last night for an eastern trip of two weeks. Dr. Miller will attend the national dental convention in Louisville, Ky., next week.

GIRL NEARLY DROWNS AS FRIENDS LAUGH

Others Think Expert Is Joking Until Gallant Young Man Pulls Her to Safety.

San Francisco.—A sensational rescue from drowning, in which the leading roles were played by Miss Jewel Welch, twenty years old and pretty, and Harry A. Clark, engineer with the Royal Insurance company, was staged in the waters of the Larkspur estuary.

Miss Welch, who with a party of friends was making a week end visit on board Clark's houseboat Rockaway, attempted to swim from the boat to the shore, 500 feet. She reached shore in safety and then plunged into the water to swim back to the ark.

Suddenly she was caught by the strong undertow of the stream and disappeared from sight. Friends on the deck of the boat, knowing that Miss Welch was an expert swimmer, believed that she was "doing stunts."

She finally appeared above the surface and cried for help, beating the water wildly.

Clark, who was standing on the deck fully clothed, plunged in and reached the spot just as she sank beneath the water. Clark dived and caught her by the hair.

Spectators on shore looked calmly on, thinking it was a moving picture thriller. In a few minutes Clark had the girl on board the boat.

TRAMP TELLS OF A REAL BARBECUE

Cow Train Struck Was Skinned, Drawn and Quartered Before She Was Cold.

Troy, Kan.—The tramps have begun to arrive here in anticipation of the berry picking season around Troy, Blair and Wathena.

There is always an overflow of strangers in Troy during the berry season, and these homeless and transient laborers are usually the first arrivals. Last year they arrived a little ahead of schedule, and a week's steady rainfall after their arrival threw them on the county's hands. A beanery was maintained by citizens where stew, coffee and bread were supplied the chilly and hungry vagrants. Two weary wanderers, one of whom evidently weathered last year's bread line, sat in reminiscence on the depot platform the other day and gave vent to the following:

"Say, bo, me stomach's demandin' recognition."

"What ya mean—last year?" asked bleary eyed No. 2.

"Why, last year," went on his companion in explanation, "a dozen or so of us were sitting here shaking and shivering with the damp and hungry to boot when the train come along and struck a cow. Talk about barbecues, bo; we had one. We had that cow drawn, quartered and cooked before she was cold. Them wuz the days," he finished.

COURT PAYS TO SETTLE CASE.

Judge Gives Plaintiff $10 In Order to Save County Expense.

Enterprise, Ore.—To save Wallowa county the expense of trying a lawsuit in which the litigants were only $10 apart Judge J. W. Knowles in the circuit court paid over that amount to the plaintiff out of his own pocket, and the suit was dismissed.

The suit was brought by J. A. Burleigh against Lillian Spicer. Burleigh appeared on his own behalf in the circuit court, but Mrs. Spicer was represented by an attorney. When the case was called Judge Knowles interrupted.

"I have been informed," he said, "that plaintiff and defendant are only $10 apart in this case."

The lawyers replied that was correct.

"Then I will give the plaintiff $10 to settle the suit," the judge said, "and we can proceed to something important and avert the expense of a trial."

TO HOLD MCDANIEL INQUEST

St. Joseph Coroner to Go Through Legal Form—$1,000 Reward Offered for Murderer.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

St. Joseph, July 17.—Dr. J. J. Wisser, acting coroner, announced tonight that he would order an inquest Thursday into the murder of Mrs. Oscar McDaniel. Doctor Wisser had said earlier in the day that he would not hold the inquest until asked to do so by the police and county authorities. Oscar D. McDaniel, prosecuting attorney and husband of the slain woman, was quoted as having told friends that he did not think an inquest could add anything to the facts known in the case.

Rewards totaling $1,000 have been offered, $500 by Oscar D. McDaniel and $500 by D. L. McDaniel, his father. It is expected that the county court will offer $500 tomorrow and $300 from the state will be added if this is done.

The police admitted readily today that they were 'up a stump.'' Every known clew has led to nothing and the case presents as tangled a mass of contradictory evidence as one could imagine.

Truth and Trade
By Bishop Warren A. Candler
Chancellor of Emory University, Atlanta
When a seller and a buyer have made a trade, based on truth, both have obtained a benefit, and the community to which they belong has been benefited insofar as their interests affect the welfare of the community. Each has parted with that which the other needed, and in turn has obtained from his fellow-man what he himself needed. Honest exchanges, therefore, enhance values.
But trades based on untruth damage all concerned. They approach dangerously near to theft.
By advertising, buyers and sellers are brought together, and truthful advertising promotes the welfare of the commercial world; it is, in fact, a part of the wealth-producing forces of the world. But untruthful advertising is a fraud and the fosterer of fraud. It partakes of the nature of the crime of getting money, or goods, under false pretenses. The medium of advertising, whatever its nature, which lends its columns to such advertising, accepts a bribe to become accessory to the same crime.
It is a far-reaching reform proposed by the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World in the motto "Truth". Such a sentiment must act like a health-laden current on the trade winds. Its influence will extend far beyond the limits of advertising, and stimulate honesty in all the processes and transactions of commerce.
The patron saints of the commercial world ought not to be Ananias and Sapphira. Lying spirits cannot guide safely the merchantmen of the world. The argosies of trade must sail by the pole-star of truth. Otherwise they will be wrecked.

HAS BEEN SERVANT IN ONE PLACE FIFTY-TWO YEARS

Tips Given Negro at Alabama College Would Make a Small Fortune.

Birmingham, Ala.—Fifty-two years a servant in one place is the record of Uncle Abe McClinney, who has waited on the dining table of the Judson Female college at Marion, in this state, ever since 1864. He is personally known and affectionately regarded by thousands of women all over the country who have attended that institution since the civil war. The alumnae of Judson recently donated enough to restore his home, which was destroyed by fire.

Uncle Abe is an old negro of war-times. His record for the same job at the college is said to be the longest in the country. Nearly everybody in Alabama and the south knows him, and his tips during his long service would make a small fortune.

In Marion there are almost twenty antebellum negroes whose attachment and service of early life bound them until death in the esteem of the white race. None are better known and more highly esteemed than Uncle Abe. He is still on the job, which he says he will hold down until he dies.

When Dr. O. L. Shivers was called by the trustees to Judson to take charge of the boarding department in an effort to keep the institution going when Alabama was prostrate from war he carried Uncle Abe with him, and the old negro has served through many administrations. At commencement time, when many seniors and alumnae return for the ceremonies, a fat purse is always made up for Uncle Abe.

PASTOR ADVISES HOW TO CHOOSE A WIFE

Helpmate, Good Housekeeper and Not Mere Toy Essential to Future Happiness.

Milwaukee, Wis.—A helpmate.
A good housekeeper.
A woman of sweet temper.
And—none other than a good woman.

These are essential when selecting a helpmate, according to the Rev. W. O. Wallace, who recently preached on "Choosing a Wife" in Bethany Presbyterian church.

"Recognize the folly of choosing a mere toy wife," he said—"I mean one that is too fine, too ethereal. She should be one who can take her place in life, sharing its burdens and responsibilities and still keep growing more bountiful in character.

"Also look for a woman of sweet temper. Nothing can take the place of love in the home; nothing else can supply its lack.

"Again, let me say, choose a helpmate who is in thorough sympathy with you in all of life's work, one you can counsel with assurance that she sympathizes with you in everything. Such a one will rejoice with you when you are prosperous and will not accuse and find fault with you when adversity strikes you down. To fail him then or to chide only adds a hundredfold burden to heart and shoulders already nigh crushed.

"No more is the man of our times excused who makes a lifelong alliance with any one who, because of her habits, vanity or moral degeneracy has the marks of the Philistine upon her life. There is no sufficient excuse for a man to wreck his prospects for life by tying himself to such debased womanhood.

"There is no other subject, next to their choice of redemption in Christ in which young people need wise, loving counsel more than in choosing for marriage. There is a grave possibility of making a mistake, for getting married does not insure happiness, for having made a mistake and taken the marriage vows, there is no honorable release."

PETTING SPOILS FIRE HORSE

Loses Love of Work as a Result of Pampering by Women Visitors.

San Francisco.—Dick, the veteran fire horse which crashed through a Market street store window some weeks ago, will never again be fitted for fire service.

Veterinary surgeons declare he has regained his former strength and vigor, but his mental attitude has changed through pampering by women visitors and other sympathizers during his sojourn in the hospital, and he now refuses even to look at a fire engine.

Dick has been so "spoiled" that no amount of persuasion can induce him to return to work.

Gets $15 From Prisoner.

Chester, Pa.—Posing as a "janitor," a stranger walked into the lockup here and flimflammed C. L. Bennett, a prisoner, out of $15 and made a safe get away. He told the prisoner the chief wanted the money for safe keeping. Bennett discovered his loss when he found the real janitor was a negro while the flimflammer was a white man.

Old Ox Shoe Found.

Centralia, Kan.—An ox shoe has been unearthed in the J. P. Dorman garden. It had probably lain there for fifty years. Miss Dorman, who is a primary teacher, used the shoe to illustrate stories to the children of the early days in Kansas, when people rode behind oxen instead of in automobiles.
